

Race for Life

14 January 2014

Jackie Fishleigh ran the Race for Life in memory of her friend Zosia who sadly died of cancer just before Christmas last year. After someone pressing a little pink wallet in her hand at Charing Cross station Jackie made the commitment to take part in the run by the time she got to work. The advertising worked and she raised a fantastic total of £1,852. Jackie has been bitten by the running bug and is hoping to take part in the 10k 2009 run for Cancer Research UK.
