

Vaccinating children: public and private law principles

17 May 2021

Article by Emily Foy, Senior Associate in the Family department, in which she considers the recent case law on vaccinating children in a family law context and how this might impact upon the anticipated rollout of the vaccine to adolescents as the country continues on the road to recovery, first published in Resolution's The Review Issue 221 May 2021, and reproduced with kind permission.

Emily Foy is an experienced family solicitor, specialising in high net worth financial settlements, particularly those with an international element and has a growing practice in the particular legal complexities faced by the modern family.

For further information, please contact Emily Foy by email or your usual contact in the Family Department or, alternatively, telephone on 020 7465 4300

Click below to read Emily's article in Resolution's The Review