

Who's Who Legal: Private Client 2017

29 December 2017

Fiona Shackleton, Alice Palmer and Robert Brodrick have been named as world leading practitioners in Who's Who: Private Client Lawyers 2017. It is an endorsement of their renowned status in this field of law and, in turn, their contribution to Payne Hicks Beach's reputation as one of the country's leading private client firms.

Who's Who: Private Client identifies the world's leading private client lawyers who can truly be considered leaders in their field. It is published after months of research canvassing and analysing the opinions of clients and private practice lawyers around the world. Who's Who Legal pride themselves on the integrity and authority of their findings. The practitioners listed assist some of the most successful and influential individuals, families and organisations in the world on their legal needs both domestically and internationally. They provide a broad range of private client services, including taxation, estate management, succession planning, onshore and offshore trust management, wealth structuring, and philanthropy and charitable giving.