

PAYNE HICKS BEACH

Payne Hicks Beach announces the appointment of charity and philanthropy law specialist Neasa Coen.

Leading full-service London law firm Payne Hicks Beach is pleased to welcome Neasa Coen as Legal Director for charity and philanthropy law in the Private Client department. Neasa focuses her practice on the charitable and not-for-profit sectors and advising grant makers, operating charities, public sector bodies, commercial organisations and philanthropists on risk management, governance, regulation, commercial projects and sustainable finance.

“Neasa is a trusted and commercially astute adviser to philanthropists, boards of charitable companies and trustees of charitable trusts,” comments Rosamond McDowell, Head of Private Client at Payne Hicks Beach. “Her skill set and expertise perfectly complements our services to HNW and Family Office clients and reflects the growth in our clients' requirements in this area that is of increasing importance in the wider UK economy. We are delighted to have Neasa on our senior advisory team.”

“I’m delighted to have joined Payne Hicks Beach,” adds Neasa Coen. “The firm’s high standards of client service and the quality of its wider offering are of great value to charities and philanthropists seeking measured and insightful advice in charity law and surrounding areas including litigation, reputation and regulatory services.”

Qualified in September 2002, Neasa joined Payne Hicks Beach in a move that reunites her with her original BLP cohort including Martin Paisner CBE, Jessica Henson and Sam Carver. She is Recommended in Chambers UK and Legal 500 and features in Citywealth Leaders List.

- ENDS -

For further press information, please contact

Deborah Ross

deborah.ross@mdcomms.co.uk

For more information on Payne Hicks Beach please visit

<https://www.phb.co.uk/service/private-client-solicitors/>